

Empowering Law Students Through Pro Bono

Real-World Experience. Real Impact. The law school journey is more than academics – it's a chance for students to build skills, grow their networks, and contribute meaningfully to their communities. Paladin's platform streamlines, scales, and strengthens pro bono engagement from day one.

Centralize Pro Bono Management

Paladin makes it easy for law schools to manage pro bono programming through a centralized portal—streamlining everything from connecting with providers and sharing opportunities with students to tracking pro bono hours.

- Connect with 400+ legal services organizations (LSOs) through Paladin's Network tab, or invite new providers for free.
- Curated pro bono opportunities added by law school administrators and connected LSOs appear in your dashboard and can be shared with students with the click of a button.
- Students also receive automatic weekly digests based on their interests.

Track Hours & Engagement

Paladin's Time Tracking tools help students and administrators log and track pro bono hours. Whether your program sets aspirational goals or mandates pro bono participation, easily track progress toward those targets in Paladin.

- Students build pro bono portfolios they can use throughout their careers.
- Admins monitor individual and aggregate engagement in real-time.
- One centralized space to log all pro bono hours – found on or off Paladin.

Engage & Empower Your Students

Through an intuitive, personalized dashboard, Paladin empowers students to find and volunteer for opportunities that match their interests and goals. Students can engage with pro bono opportunities nationwide across a range of practice areas, causes, and communities.

- Profiles with pro bono preferences that students can update anytime.
- Real-time searchable database and customized weekly digests of opportunities based on student interests.
- Access to remote and flexible opportunities, making it easy to stay involved from anywhere—on break, traveling, or off campus.
- Simple sign-up with direct connection to the provider.
